

Dear Parents,

Pasco Elementary School has an exciting night happening this Thursday, February 2nd. On Thursday, we will have many activities for you and your child to explore together. One of the activities we would like for you to join in participating is the StarLab. The StarLab is a portable planetarium that allows you to take a look into the night sky. You will have an opportunity to view stars, moon phases, and various constellations. During this night, we will also be offering a bookfair for you and your child to purchase a book of your choice. The StarLab and the bookfair are not the only activities being offered. We will also have an optional breakout session where you will have an opportunity to learn about resources on the computer to use with your child for reading and math help at home. These awesome activities will be available on Thursday (February 2nd) from 5:00 p.m. - 6:30 p.m.

We look forward to seeing you and your child at PES on Thursday (February 2nd).

Please return this bottom portion to your child's classroom teacher.
